

That definitely was a swing and a miss! You're so awesome and so great at maintaining your composure. Great job!

2d Like Reply

1

Jonathan Blasewitz

Looks like he landed both punches to me. First one may have been more of a glancing blow though. And he's definitely lying about trying to stop the spit.

2d Like Reply

3

Brittany Iriart

And what do you think of Mary Dulacki's public announcement that it wasn't a strike? She's a big shot in the Department of Safety.

2d Like Reply

Jonathan Blasewitz

Brittany Iriart looks to me like she's trying to walk the line of not

LaShaun Void-Amos

That was DEFINITELY a punch.

2d Like Reply

1

LaShaun Void-Amos

I always watch footage without sound. That helps keep the bias out. From what I saw, he knocked tf out of that man. If someone spat or me, I might've reacted instinctively too 🤔

2d Like Reply

Brittany Iriart

LaShaun Void-Amos I just hate the lying. I told him in the interview "people would understand if you were angry and that was your immediate reaction." But nooooo! He had to opt for the "these are not the droids you are looking for" defense.

2d Like Reply

2

LaShaun Void-Amos

I want your opinion - did the deputy strike the inmate?

KDVR.COM

Video shows Denver deputy punch inmate in wheelchair

- Like
- Comment
- Share

5

Laska Hayes

Looks like he missed...sure they can clean it up and get better resolution

3d Like Reply